

Help us make a splash for autism!

Become a sponsor of the Duck Race!

This 4th annual duck race fundraiser will be running thousands of ducks to the finish line—all to help children and families affected by autism.

April 28, 2019

This event is not a spectator event and is not open to the public.

Winners will be announced via email.

The Duck Race, hosted by HealthyUNow Foundation, gives you and your company the opportunity to make a significant difference in the lives of children with autism while reaching out to our community. We believe that autism is a treatable but environmentally-induced medical disease. With your support, we believe we can restore health and optimize function in those affected by it.

Urgent: Your help is needed now

As the numbers of affected children continue to rise exponentially, HealthyUNow feels a tremendous sense of urgency. If nothing were to change, the current rate of autism, 1 in 45, is expected to reach 1 in 2 boys by 2025, just seven years from now, and 1 in 2 children by 2032.

All proceeds benefit the HealthyUNow Campus for Autism

The visionary HealthyU Campus will have wellness, educational/vocational and residential services—both long-established and cutting-edge therapies—offering centralized, comprehensive opportunities for families dealing with autism.

Please join us in making this a success for local Northeast Florida families and others affected by autism.

HealthyUNow Foundation is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit founded in 2011 by Julie A. Buckley, M.D., author of "Healing our Autistic Children," pioneer in the treatment of autism spectrum disorders (ASDs), and parent of an autistic child. ASDs are a group of medical illnesses that manifest with behavioral, communication and social challenges that typically present before age three. Long-term outcomes can be greatly improved with early identification, restoration of health and implementation of effective therapies.
